2024 Year Closing Note and New Year Greetings from the President of AHPI-TN

Dear AHPI-TN Members, Partners and Friends

As we draw the curtains on another remarkable year, I take this opportunity to reflect on our journey together in 2024 and to extend my warmest greetings for the New Year.

This year has been a testament to our collective commitment and resilience. We have witnessed significant growth within AHPI-TN, welcoming numerous new members who bring fresh perspectives and energy to our community. Our membership has expanded not only in numbers but also in diversity, enriching our dialogue and initiatives.

Throughout the year, we engaged in a multitude of activities designed to foster collaboration and enhance our impact in the healthcare sector. From workshops and seminars to networking events, our members have actively participated, sharing insights and best practices that strengthen our collective mission. Your enthusiasm and involvement have been truly inspiring.

One of our key achievements has been the enhanced dialogue with government entities. We have established productive channels of communication that allow us to advocate for our members and contribute to policy discussions that shape the future of healthcare in our region. This engagement has not only elevated our voice but has also positioned AHPI-TN as a trusted partner in addressing the challenges facing our industry.

As we look ahead to 2025, let us carry forward the momentum we have built together. I encourage each of you to continue your involvement, to share your ideas, and to engage with one another. Together, we can achieve even greater milestones and make a lasting impact on the healthcare landscape.

In closing, I wish you and your families a joyous holiday season filled with peace, happiness, and good health. May the New Year bring new opportunities, continued growth, and success for all of us. Thank you for your unwavering support and dedication to AHPI-TN.

Warm regards,

Dr Sathish Devadoss, MBBS MS MCh Orth (UK),FASIF (AUSTRALIA)

President, AHPI-TN

From the Secretary Desk:

Recently, one of my doctor friends visited the USA for a vacation. While bathing in a waterfall, he suddenly collapsed. Thankfully, a fellow tourist immediately performed CPR and rushed him to the nearest hospital. He survived and later returned to India. However, I can't help but think that had he been in India, the outcome might have been different.

This experience has made me realize the critical importance of CPR training for the public, particularly for auto and taxi drivers, as well as police personnel, who are often the first to respond in emergencies. With their swift action and proper training, many lives could be saved. Offering CPR training to these individuals would equip them with the skills to act quickly in life-threatening situations, potentially making all the difference.

Additionally, placing Automated External Defibrillators (AEDs) in high-traffic areas, such as public events, marketplaces, and transport hubs, could significantly improve survival rates in emergencies. Ensuring that CPR-trained personnel are available at such locations would further increase the chances of a positive outcome when every second counts.

A proactive approach like this could not only save lives but also raise awareness about the importance of emergency preparedness. Even if we save just one life through these efforts, it would be a tremendous achievement. I firmly believe that widespread CPR training and the availability of AEDs could have a transformative impact on public health and safety in India, fostering a culture of life-saving readiness across the country.

Warm regards,

Mr. Rambabu
